As artists we will be focusing on using water colour and creating observational art from photos of our school grounds in the Winter. We will be developing skills and techniques with this medium as well as colour exploration.

We will learn how to look closely as both scientists and artists.

New Knowledge:

Scientist:

Understanding the seasons and asking simple questions from observations. With a focus on Winter.

Geography:

Understanding the seasons, how they change and how this might compare to different parts of the world.

Artist:

Taking their understanding of colour further using by blending to create specific effects.
